Congress of the United States.

HOUSE OF REPRESENTATIVES.

THURSDAY, May 2.

To the House of Representatives of the United States.

I transmit to the house a report of the secretary of state complying with the resolution of the 30th of April.

JAMES MADISON.

MAY 1, 1810.

In pursuance of the resolution of the house of representatives of yesterday the secretary of state has the honor of transmitting to the president of the U. States, the accompanying papers marked A. B. C.
D. E. F.

No information has been received, that any communication has been made to our minister at London on the part of the British government "in answer to any note presented by him in pursuance of instructions given on the 23d of Nov. 1809."

No answer has been given to the "propositions or overtures, made on the part of the U. States to the governments of G.
Britain and France, respecting any of the orders and decrees affecting neutral commerce," which have not been heretofore or which are not herewith communicated. All which is respectfully submitted.

R. SMITH.

Department of State,
May 1, 1810.

Extract of a letter from General Armstrong to M. Champagny,

"PARIS, Sept. 8, 1809."

"I had the honor to receive your excellency's letter of the 23d of August last, in exposition of the principles adopted by his majesty with regard to neutral commerce. I shall hasten to transmit a copy of this note to my government."

(B.)

The Secretary of State to General Armstrong.

DEPARTMENT OF STATE,
Dec. 1, 1809.

SIR,
Enclosed you have five copies of the President's message and of its accompanying documents. They will afford you a view of the existing state of things here, and particularly of the ground taken in the correspondence with the British minister. You will perceive that the deliberations of Congress at their present session cannot but be embarrassed by the painful consideration that the two principal belligerents have been for some time alike regardless of our neutral rights, and that they manifest no disposition to relinquish, in any degree, their unreasonable pretensions.

You will also herewith receive a copy of a letter from Mr. Pinkney which will shew the light in which M. Champagny's letter is viewed by the President, and at the same time the course of proceeding prescribed to our minister in London. You will of course understand it to be wished that you should ascertain the meaning of the French government as to the condition on which it has been proposed to revoke the Berlin decree. On the principle which seems to be assumed by M. Champagny, nothing more ought to be required than a recall by Great Britain of her proclamation or illegal blockades which are of a date prior to that of the Berlin decree, or a formal declaration that they are not now in force. Should this be done and be followed by an amendment of all the decrees and orders in chronological order, and Great Britain should afterwards put in force old or proclaim new blockades contrary to the laws of nations, it would produce questions between her and the U.
States, which the French government is bound to leave to the United States; at least until it shall find it necessary to bring forward complaints of an acquiescence on our part not consistent with the neutrality professed by us.

You will yourself, and if necessary you will let the French government understand, that we do not consider ourselves bound to contest the legality of a blockade which may be conformable to the definitions heretofore announced by the United States and particularly to the definition contained in the treaty of June and October, 1801, between G.
Britain and Russia. However founded the definition of M. Champagny may be in reason and general utility, and consequently however desirable to be made the established law on the subject of blockades, a different practice has too long prevailed among all nations, France as well as others, and is so strongly authenticated by the writers of admitted authority to be combatted by the United States.

If you should receive from the French government explanations proper to be communicated to Mr. Pinkney, you will not fail to transmit the same to him without delay. And should they be such as to make it important that Mr. Pinkney should immediately found thereon an application to British government to prepare the way for a repeal of the Berlin decree, you will be pleased to hasten the communication to him by a special messenger. Whatever the explanations may be, you will of course transmit them to this department, with such other information as may be interesting.

With great respect, &c.

(Signed)

R. SMITH.

General John Armstrong,
Esq. &c. &c.

(C.)

Mr. Smith to Mr. Pinkney.

DEPARTMENT OF STATE,
November 11, 1809.

SIR,

From the enclosed copy of a letter from Mr. Champagny to general Armstrong, it appears that the French government has taken a ground in relation to the British violation of our neutral rights, not the same with that heretofore taken, and which it is proper you should be acquainted with. You will observe that the terms stating the condition on which the Berlin decree will be revoked are not free from obscurity. They admit the construction however, that if Great Britain will annul her illegal blockades as distinct from her orders in council, such as the blockades from the Elbe to Brest, &c. prior to the Berlin decree, or at least the illegal part of it. Whilst therefore it becomes important to take proper steps, as will be done, through general Armstrong to ascertain the real and precise meaning of Mr. Champagny's letter, it is important also that your interposition should be used to ascertain the actual state of the British blockades distinct from the orders in council, whether merely on paper or otherwise illegal, and whether prior or subsequent to the Berlin decree, and to feel the pulse of the British government on the propriety of putting them out of the way in order to give force to our call on France to prepare the way for the repeal of the orders in council, by her repeal of that decree.

In the execution of this task I rely on the judgment and delicacy by which I am persuaded you will be guided, and on your keeping in mind the desire of this government to entangle itself as little as possible in the question of priority in the violation of our neutral rights, and to commit itself as little as possible to either belligerent as to the course to be taken with the other.
If it should be found that no illegal blockades are now in force, and so declared by Great-Britain, or that the British government is ready to revoke and withdraw all such as may not be consistent with the definition of blockade in the Russian treaty of June 1801, it will be desirable that you lose no time in giving the information to General Armstrong, and, whatever may be the result of your enquiries, that you hasten a communication of it to me.

Writing on short notice of the present conveyance, I have only to add the assurance of my esteem and great consideration, &c.

(Signed)

R. SMITH.

(D.)

Extract of a letter from General Armstrong to the Secretary of State.

"PARIS, January 28, 1810."

"In conformity to the suggestions contained in your letter of the 1st December, 1809, I enquired whether if Great-Britain revoked her blockades of a date anterior to the decree commonly called the Berlin decree, his majesty the emperor would consent to revoke the said decree. To which the minister answered that "the only condition required for the revocation by his majesty, of the decrees of Berlin, will be a previous revocation by the British government of her blockades of France, or part of France, (such as that from the Elbe to Brest, &c.) of a date anterior to that of the aforesaid decree; and that if the British government would then recall the orders in council which had occasioned the decree of Berlin, that decree should also be annulled."

Extract of a letter from Mr. Pinkney to the Secretary of State.

"London, Feb. 22, 1810."

"I have received from General Armstrong a letter of which a copy is enclosed; and have in consequence, made a written enquiry of Lord Wellesley (with whom I had before communicated personally on the subject) as to the intricacies of the blockades to which it alludes. I am not without hopes that the reply to my enquiry will amount to a declaration (satisfying in substance the condition mentioned in General Armstrong's letter) that these blockades are not in force; and if it should, I will send immediate notice to General Armstrong. I have prepared an official letter to you on this head, which with such additional circumstances may enable me to make it to be sent by the corvette" (the John Adams.)

Copy of a letter from General Armstrong to Mr. Pinkney.
Paris, Jan. 25, 1810.

A letter from Mr. Secretary Smith of the first of December last, made it my duty as enquire of his excellency the duke of Codore, what were the conditions on which his majesty the emperor would annul his decree, commonly called the Berlin decree, and whether if Great-Britain revoked her blockades of a date anterior to that decree, his majesty would consent to revoke the said decree. To these questions I have, this day, received the following answer, which I hasten to convey to you by a special messenger.

ANSWER.

"The only condition required for the revocation by his majesty the emperor, of the decree of Berlin will be the previous revocation by the British government of her blockades of France, or part of France, (such as that from the Elbe to Brest, &c.) of a date anterior to that of the aforesaid decree."

I have the honor to be, &c.

JOHN ARMSTRONG.

SALEM, April 23

Captain Rogers of the brig Independence who arrived on Thursday last from Malta, informs that the evening before he sailed, "the crew of a Beverly schooner, was brought in by a French privateer into Malta from Naples, by order of the French government—among them was capt. Lar-com's schooner, who had been three times cleared, and the Margaret, Fairfield, who had previously compromised with his cap-tors—The American prisoners had their choice either of prison or privateer."

FOR SALE,

A valuable new MERCHANT MILL, in complete repair, with two pair of French burr for wheat and one pair of Allegany stones for corn. There is machinery of every description for conveying the wheat into the waggon and from the packing with a very small portion of manual labor. It may be tended with less than half the labor in common mills. It is situated on the main turnpike road leading from Ashby's Gap to Alexandria, on a good stream of water as ny in the parts. It is capable of making 30 barrels of flour every twenty four hours;— it is also expected the new paved road will come directly by it, which will make the carriage of flour to Alexandria short, cheap and easy.

Any person wishing to purchase will do well to make immediate application, as possession will be given the first of July. It is presumed that any person wishing to purchase would want to see the premises, when the terms will be made known by

Joseph Hatcher,

OR

Samuel Hatcher,

Near Leesburg,

April 17.

TO LET,

THE ware house and store adjoining Messrs. John McPherson, and Co.
One fronting on Union street, the other Mc-Pherson's wharf. There is a convenient yard attached to them, communicating with the wharf, suitable for naval stores, staves &c.
The premises afford every convenience for the flour or any business connected with shipping, and will be rented on reasonable terms.

A letter from Cadiz, March 9, states, that Malaga, Marbella, Estepona, Algeiras, St. Roque and Forosa, are freed from the French, the people having risen and killed most of the French who were in those places.

Extract of a letter from Liverpool, received at New York, dated March 23.

The state of suspense in which we are held by Mr. Macon's bill, has induced many people to doubt if it was ever seriously intended on the part of the American government to pass it into a law: this circumstance added to various reports, such as the sending away Mr. Jackson from the United States, his return to this country, &c. &c. have had from time to time a trifling effect on the market, and prices have fluctuated a little; the frequent arrival of vessels direct from the United States has, however, tended to prevent any considerable advance—and two or three of these arrivals not counteracted by any report of a hostile or doubtful nature, have never failed to cause a little depreciation. It appears now the prevailing opinion, that either the bill introduced by Mr. Macon will pass, or that the non-intercourse act will be suffered to expire, and that the direct intercourse will thereby be restored; we confess we cannot reconcile this event, should it not be preceded by an adjustment of the causes which led to the non-intercourse laws.

The government of France having granted licenses for the importation from this country, of dye woods, ashes, indigo, and some articles, a great demand has been created for them, particularly ashes, and our government only grants licenses for the export of those imported from the British colonies, the whole of these are swept out of the market.—To day, sixty four shillings has been paid for middling parcels, whilst fine Boston remains at fifty eight, this circumstance will, however, tend to keep the prices steady, which would otherwise have been much depreciated. Pearl ashes are quite neglected, and though few are disposed to sell lower than the quotations, it would be difficult to run off a quantity of them: The supply of quercitron bark has been extremely limited, and prices are supported for fine parcels; should a direct intercourse take place, a large import would doubtless reduce the prices.—The consumption of cotton is as great or greater than ever it was in this country, which circumstance has tended to keep the prices from falling very low, otherwise we are persuaded from the present disposition to sell, that much greater depreciation would have taken place. Several circumstances have tended to lower the prices;—the length of time it is on the voyage naturally draws the consignees into heavy cash advances, and also the general peremptory orders to sell on arrival, or even to arrive, which have been given by merchants in America. With respect to future prospects in cotton, it is impossible that prices should be reduced to the low state contemplated by some people, namely, 12d 1-2 per lb. on rather that they should remain in these prices long, during so large a consumption. Flaxseed is more enquired for than for some time past: and cloverseed is in great request at the annexed prices. Very little sweet American flour remains in the market; prime lots would command the quotations. Wheat is rather declining, though we do not apprehend much reduction.

The heavy stock of rice in this market has rendered certain a depreciation from the prices which have been current, inasmuch as they were much too high to admit of export, & till this is the case the stock will be too large to remain at steady prices. A cargo of good fair rice was sold yesterday at 22s, which is the lowest sale we have heard of; many parcels are however offering at 23s. 6d. a 23s, from middling to fine qualities. Naval stores having been a favorite article with the non-intercourse violators, considerable quantities are come forward, and the market is a good deal depressed, particularly in turpentine. Should the direct intercourse not be renewed, these articles will go up again, more especially tar, which is not received at all from the Baltic at present. Timber and staves have felt the general depression, but not to the extent which other articles have done; and the short supplies from the Baltic induce us to think their prices will not be so much affected, even with a direct intercourse, as many other articles. Tobacco is generally a leading article to advance and to fall, but in the present instance it remained more firm than most others: it has eventually given way, and at present sales could with difficulty be effected at any reduction; we hear of fair Virginia leaf sold at 5d, such as were current at 10d some time back; indeed there appears no reason for this excessive decline.

All articles of export only have been in good demand for some time past, and the prices are much improved. Dye-woods, coffee, indigo, Havana sugars, and particularly hides, have all been sought after with avidity. The exports from London in these articles is as great, or greater, than at any time of profound peace.

We remain, most respectfully, your very obedient servants,

Robinson & Lawrence.

PRIVATE CORRESPONDENCE.

[From the (Phil.) Register.]

ROTTERDAM, March 26.

Trade is out of the question here just now, and God knows when we shall see it on a regular footing again.

AMSTERDAM, March 27.

It is said a treaty between the French emperor and our king was concluded the 16th inst.—That Holland will remain a kingdom; a cession of territory and a pecuniary sacrifice, will be the conditions; nothing more is known on the subject. The king will return to his states, after the marriage feasts of his brother are over; meantime our decrees prohibiting the admission of American vessels into our ports, remain in full working—on the other hand our ports are guarded by French corsairs, that capture every vessel they can lay hold of on approaching our shores; which are every one condemned by the prize court at Paris. We have noticed the nomination of a new French Ambassador to the United States. As it is said the British ministry have concluded an arrangement with Mr. Pinkney, your ambassador at the court of St. James; we sincerely hope France and Great Britain will both rescind their orders that effect your neutrality. We are however, sorry to remark, that every where, where French influence prevails, the Americans are treated and considered as the instrumental medium used by the English merchants to carry on their trade with the continent of Europe. No kind of colonial produce can be exported from the duchy of Holstein to Germany. This interdiction will bear heavy on the American adventurer to Tomingen. We continue debarr'd from our commercial intercourse with Germany and France. Rumors of a pacific nature have of late been in circulation, but nothing certain is yet known whether overtures have really been made for that purpose. Our market has long been very dull, but it has become still more so. In consequence there is no stir in produce. Prices are more nominal—Coffee is pretty abundant—Raw sugars scarce. Cotton more on hand than is sufficient for the want of our manufacturers, and without foreign orders prices are not likely to rise. Pot and pearl ashes are requested. Carolina Rice heavy on hand. Tobaccoes have attained extraordinary high prices, but we apprehend when the captured cargoes are brought to market (which it is expected they will be shortly) they will undergo a considerable decline. Dyer's wares are quite at a stand. In France they are imported direct from England with French imperial license. Plaster and pepper in little demand.

AMSTERDAM, March 27.

As Tomingen I believe it must be very bad; thirteen American ships have of late arrived here again, and by the last Danish decree they are not even allowed to transport the goods from there to Altona.—In the Prussian dominions vigorous measures are likewise taken against the import, and it seems that Russia will likewise be very sharp in regard to the vessels coming there, so that the navigation to the north and the Baltic, will this year probably be subject to vast dangers and difficulties. It is to be hoped that things may soon take a more favorable turn, for as it is now situated, it is almost impossible to undertake any thing.

Substance of a Proclamation issued at La Par, in the province of Charcas, and adopted in most of the provinces of Peru, similar to another published at Quito, sometime before this event took place.

Extract from a Proclamation of the Spanish Americans in favor of Independence.

"AMERICANS!—To defend your Country is not Treason! To be loyal to it is not infidelity! To redeem it is not foolishness! To save it, is not injustice! To deliver it, is loyalty, is virtue, and is heroism! It would be perfidy to abandon it in the moment the most fortunate that could happen for its emancipation.

DECEIVE!—Are you so fast to reason as to subject yourselves to a crown which does not exist; and which did it exist, would have as much right over you, as Pope Alexander the 6th had to make grants of what belonged not to him! It is argued that ambition authorizes conquest, and that a domination of three centuries can justify usurpation! Deceive not yourselves! Usurpation is a crime, and conquest is a veil to cover it; and one crime cannot be justified by another, more than time can convert iniquity into justice, or wrong into right, or violence into title deeds of possession.

Do then your duty—embrace independence and make known, to the inhabitants of North America, that you will be as happy and independent as they. That you are neither ignorant nor forgetful of the advantages possessed by free and enlightened nations."

Public Sale.
Will be sold, at public sale, at Brook's tavern, in Alexandria, on SATURDAY, the 19th of May next—

That valuable Tract of Land, known as Beane's Patent, formerly occupied by Presley Cox and lately by Josiah Watson, being on the waters of Holmes Run, about two miles from the town of Alexandria, between the Colchester road and the great turnpike now leading from Alexandria to Little River, containing about 490 acres, agreeable to a plat and survey which will be produced on the day of sale, and which may now be seen by applying to Col. Gilpin, of Alexandria, or to Al. Vander Kerr, of Washington city. The land will be laid off in lots of from 40 to 60 acres to suit purchasers.
The terms of sale will be—One third cash, and a credit of 6 and 12 months on the remaining two thirds, notes negotiable in the bank of Alexandria with approved endorers, bearing interest from the date.
The title to the above land is unquestionable, it will be made by the commissioners appointed by the court of Fairfax county to the purchasers. In the above tract there is a large proportion of bottom land, which will make excellent meadow, and the upland has elegant sites for building.

FOR SALE.

At the town of Occoquan, on the 26th day of May next, at Public Auction,

That valuable MILL SEAT, late the property of Eliza Janney.

SITUATE in the said town of Occoquan On this site was erected, about eleven years ago, a spacious three story BRICK MILL HOUSE, which ever since has been occupied as a manufacturing mill, until about twelve months ago it was destroyed by fire—the stones and bricks of the former walls, and the iron work of the building are upon the spot, and would answer for a new mill, which might with these aids, be erected in time to grind the growing crop of wheat.

The advantages appertaining to this valuable property, which in the driest season never wants water, being furnished by the Occoquan river, are so generally known as not to need a particular enumeration: suffice it to state, that it is situated in a healthy and flourishing little town at the Falls of the river, about 16 miles south of Alexandria, on the great stage road, leading north and south —in the heart of a wheat country—and has navigable water to the mill door, where vessels may come of sufficient burthen to carry 500 barrels of flour. With this valuable seat for water works of any description, there may be had about 250 acres of well-timbered land, lying on the opposite side of the river.

For this property one-tenth of the purchase money will be required in hand, and the residue in three equal annual payments, with interest from the day of sale.

Negro BILLY,

WHO eloped on the 24th of last month.
He is a likely fellow, about 30 years of age, 5 feet eight or nine inches high, remarkably straight, and has a scar on one of his cheeks, I believe the left, occasioned by a cut; he is a cooper by trade, and served his apprenticeship at the Occoquan Mills, and was purchased some years ago by Mr. Thos Richards, of a Mrs. Waggoner, who lived in the neighborhood of that place. He was seen eight days ago on his way to Alexandria, where he said he was going to get employment. I think it highly probable he may be found in the neighborhood of the above Mill

DOCTOR B. FENDALL,
Regular bred Surgeon Dentist.

AND who has been in practice for near THIRTY YEARS, has just arrived in Alexandria, and may be seen and consulted at Brook's tavern, at any time during his continuance in it. The earlier applications are made to the Doctor by those who feel disposed to employ him as a Dentist the better, as his continuance in Alexandria is very uncer-ain. Those ladies and gentlemen, in Alexandria, who find it inconvenient to wait on the Doctor, he will readily attend, on the shortest notice.

Dr. Fendall cures the scurvy in the gums, be it ever so inveterate, in a short time twenty four hours at farthest, fastens loose teeth by making the gums grow up to them, renders the teeth white and beautiful; prevents their decay; keeps such as are so from becoming worse, even to old age; fills up those that are hollow with gold, with foil or lead which will not only render them useful, but prevent their aching and further decay; extracts teeth and stumps with ease; makes and fixes artificial teeth. His Columbian Antiseptic Dentifrice, for preserving the teeth, gums, sockets, &c. and superior he thinks, both in elegance and efficacy, to any other is still sold by the doctor.

ORIGINAL FAMILY MEDICINES.

Prepared by RICHARD LEE & SON Have been in high estimation and generally used throughout the United States, for wards of ten years. And it is no inconspicuous evidence of their utility, that during the same period, numerous imitations of very articles, the productions of ignorance and avarice, have been introduced on the public, and then perished! Others have succeeded them, which in like manner are fast descending to the tomb of the Capulets; while remedies become more generally used, and acquire a daily accession of deserved celebrity.

Lee's Warm-destroying Lozenges.
This medicine is superior to any verified to the public, being innocent and certain and efficacious in its operations. Should no worms exist in the body, it without pain or gripping cleanses the stomach and bowels of whatever is foul or offensive, and thereby prevents the production of worms and many fatal disorders.

Lee's Elixer.
A certain remedy for colds, coughs, and hoarseness, and particularly the whooping cough, so destructive to children.

Lee's Essence of Mustard.
So well known for the cure of rheumism, gout, palsy, sprains, &c. &c.

Lee's Grand Restorative.
Proved by long experience to be unequalled in the cure of nervous disorders, consumptions, leucis of spirits, inward weakness, &c.

Lee's Anti-Bilious Pills.
For the prevention and cure of bilious and malignant fevers.

Lee's Sovereign Ointment for the Itch.
Which is warranted an infallible remedy in one application.

Infallible Ague & Fever Drops.
For the cure of agues, remittent, and intermittent fevers.

Lee's Genuine Perforian Lotion.
Celebrated for the cure of ring worms scurf, &c.

Lee's Genuine Eye Water.
An effectual remedy for all diseases of the eyes.

Tooth-ache Drops.
Which give immediate relief.

Lee's Damask Lip Salve.

Restorative Powder for the Teeth and Gums.

The Anodyne Elixir.
For the cure of every kind of head-ach.

The Indian Vegetable Specific.
For the cure of venereal complaints.
Those medicines having come into general use, they are frequently purchased not only by Druggists, but by country stores, kept to sell again; in order that the purchaser may be confident they have the original genuine medicines; wherever they purchase they have but to observe, that every article of medicine has on the outward wrapper the signature of the proprietors.
